

Table B - 2021-2022 NSW Workers Compensation Industry Classification System

Classification of an employer's business

- (a) The classification applicable to an employer is the class in the following industry classification table to which the employer's business corresponds. An employer's business means the employer's business or industrial activity.
- b) An employer's average performance premium is determined having regard to the rate determined by the insurer for the classification applicable to the employer's business as determined in accordance with subclause (a).
- (c) An employer may carry on a single business or more than one business at the same time. Employers carrying on multiple businesses, which are separate and distinct, may be allocated to more than one workers compensation industry classification (WIC).

Notes

1. Employer activities incidental to the main business

The following activities are not considered as separate and distinct businesses and are not entitled to a separate industry classification but should be considered incidental to the employer's other activity or activities in New South Wales:

- (a) Clerical and/or Technical and/or Computer/Information Technology Support Services as defined in Subdivision 78 Business Services,
- (b) Management Services,
- (c) Administrative or maintenance Services,
- (d) Sales and Marketing, (including retail and wholesale trade agent),
- (e) Head Office Activities (provided to a NSW business or provided predominantly to related NSW employers),
- (f) Warehousing, storage or transport associated with Manufacturing, Wholesaling or Retailing.

. Consequently the wages of any such workers providing these services will attract the percentage rate of the class that is appropriate to the employer's business.

2. Classification applicable to a single business

If an employer carries on a single business, the classification applicable to the business is that which most accurately describes the entire business of the employer. The entire business includes not only the operations and activities directly involved in the conduct of the business, but also all operations and activities incidental to the conduct of the business.

3. Separate and distinct businesses

If an employer carries on more than one business, so that it can be said that the employer carries on separate and distinct businesses, Note 2 applies to each such separate and distinct business.

Generally, businesses are not separate and distinct if the operations and activities carried on in those businesses are incidental to one another - refer Note 1

In determining whether businesses are separate and distinct (for classification purposes) it is relevant to take the following into account:

- (a) the nature of the operations and activities (including incidental operations and activities) respectively carried on in the businesses,

Table B - 2021-2022 NSW Workers Compensation Industry Classification System

- (b) whether each business' operations and activities are independent of the other business' operations and activities,
- (c) differences in the identity of the workers respectively engaged in the businesses (and in particular of the workers engaged in the manufacturing or industrial activities and operations),
- (d) differences in locations of the businesses, for example,
  - differences in locations may vary from sites far removed from each other, or
  - separate floors in a given building, or
  - separate parts on the one floor level of a building

The important element in relation to location is that normally separate and distinct businesses have exclusive use of the particular area in which the operations and activities of the business are carried on.

4. Classification applicable to more than one business

In the event that an employer carries on separate and distinct businesses then workers engaged in the activities listed in Note 1 are to each be allocated to one of those two or more separate and distinct businesses. Any such allocation will be on the following basis:

- (a) if such a worker is occupied wholly or predominantly in just one of the employer's separate and distinct businesses in New South Wales then the entire wages of the worker will attract the percentage rate of the class appropriate to that business,
- (b) if such a worker is predominantly occupied in more than one of the employer's separate and distinct businesses in New South Wales then the entire wages of the worker will attract the lowest percentage rate of the classes appropriate to the various business activities in which the worker is occupied. (In the event that those two or more separate and distinct businesses each have the same percentage rate then the worker's entire wages will attract the class with the lowest number).

5. Employers (grouped or ungrouped) who provide services to a related employer

If an employer (whether grouped for workers compensation purposes or not) provides services referred to in Note 1 to a related employer in New South Wales, the premium payable by the employer is to be calculated on the following basis:

- (a) by reference to the highest percentage rate of the classes applicable to the second employer, to whom the services are provided, or
- (b) if the employer is able to provide supporting documentation to show that such services are mainly provided to a particular business operation of the second employer – by reference to the rate for the class applicable to the business operation of the second employer.
- (c) if the employer is able to provide supporting documentation to show that such services are provided to a related interstate and/or overseas entity and a worker predominantly provides such services to the related interstate and/or overseas entity the entire wages of the worker will attract the percentage rate of the class applicable to the services provided to the interstate and/or overseas entity.

6. Employers (grouped or ungrouped) who provide services to two or more related employers

Where an employer (whether grouped for workers compensation purposes or not) provides services referred to in Note 1 to two or more other related employers in New South Wales, the premium payable by the employer is to be calculated:

Table B - 2021-2022 NSW Workers Compensation Industry Classification System

- (a) by reference to the highest percentage rate of the classes applicable to the respective members to whom they provide services; or
- (b) if the employer is able to provide supporting documentation to show that such services are mainly provided to a particular business operation of one of the other employers in the group – by reference to the rate for the class applicable to the business operation of that other employer; or
- (c) if the employer is able to provide supporting documentation to show that such services are provided to related interstate and/or overseas entities and a worker predominantly provides such services to related interstate and/or overseas entities the entire wages of the worker will attract the percentage rate of the class applicable to the services provided to the interstate and/or overseas entities.

7. Corporate Head Office

This Note should be read in conjunction with WIC 785410 Corporate Head Office Administration.

i) Employers providing Corporate Head Office services outside NSW

Where an employer:

- a) carries on a business and part of that business is located interstate and/or overseas, or is the Australian Head Office or National Head Office for a group of businesses, and a worker of the employer provides Corporate Head Office services predominantly to its business/es outside NSW and
- b) can provide supporting documentation to show that such services are provided to those interstate and/or overseas businesses, the entire wages of the worker will attract the percentage rate of Class 785410 Corporate Head Office Administration.

Only one member of a group of related employers in NSW can be allocated to WIC 785410 Corporate Head Office, where there is documentary evidence to support it. In exceptional cases only, a second member of a group may be allocated to WIC 785410, for example where one group of employers acquires another group of employers and both continue to maintain their own corporate head office structure. Supporting evidence on how they qualify for WIC 785410 is required in such cases.

ii) Corporate Head Office functions

- a) Corporate Head Office activities include high level policy direction, meeting corporate regulatory requirements, corporate planning, management accounting, internal audit, corporate promotional work, investment management, property management, share registry operation, superannuation fund administration and other activities with a similar focus.

Workers whose wages may be eligible for WIC 785410 include:

- Chief Executive Officer and Board
- Chief Financial Officer
- Chief Human Resources Officer
- Senior Executives directly involved in high level corporate decision making including their immediate Head Office executive support staff.

- b) Employers in Class 785410 do not undertake operational control of activities directly integral to or related to the other day to day activities of the employer or group.

Table B - 2021-2022 NSW Workers Compensation Industry Classification System

The wages of workers (and their support staff) who undertake or have operational control of the following functions for the employer/group are not to be included in WIC 785410 - design of product, production control, cost accounting, managing contracts, sales and marketing, payroll, debtor/creditor activities, purchasing, data collection, call centres and activities listed under Note 1.

iii) Eligibility criteria for Corporate Head Office

The following factors should be taken into account in determining Corporate Head Office status:

- (a) Corporate Head Office function is undertaken by a separately identifiable group of workers;
- (b) Functions undertaken are of a generic nature (common to the management structure of most industries); and
- (c) Activities of the Corporate Head Office are undertaken in a manner that is mainly directed towards the employer's operations outside of New South Wales.

Exception: A business which provides Corporate Head Office services only and exclusively to its coal mining operations undertaken either within or outside NSW may be classified under Class 785410 Corporate Head Office Administration. This only applies where its coal mining operations within NSW are required to take out workers compensation insurance with Coal Services Pty Ltd for all of its workers, apart from Corporate Head Office workers.

iv) Supporting documentation:

The employer must provide supporting documentation that verifies Corporate Head Office functions are the main activity of the worker/s and that these are carried out for its operations and/or related businesses located outside NSW, including:

- Breakdown of entities and operations across all jurisdictions/states showing:
  - location of operations and
  - the number of employees and
  - remuneration in the last financial year by
    - corporate roles (per Note 7 ii) a),
    - operational control functions per Note 7 iii) b) and
    - other roles (e.g. manufacturing/production/business services), and
- Breakdown of head office business unit showing each function and titles for each staff role including the following against each role:
  - wages
  - services, by percentage, provided to NSW and outside NSW

8. Per capita classes

If an employer has a business that is covered by classes 612310, 612315, 612320, 612322, 612324, 612326, 612330, 931120, 931130, 931930, 931940 or 931950 (being classes that refer to a per capita rate), the employer's average performance premium is to be calculated, to the extent that the business relates to those classes, on the basis of the relevant numbers by which those rates are to be multiplied (for example, the number of boxing matches or taxi licence plates) rather than on the basis of wages.

9. Ministers of religion

In relation to the class applicable to ministers of religion (961000) note that clauses 17 and 18 of Schedule 1 to the Workplace Injury Management and Workers Compensation Act 1998 provide special procedures by which ministers of religion may be treated as workers for the purposes of the Act.

10. Labour hire

In the case of a labour hire business more than one class may apply. The class applicable to each category of worker hired out is the class that applies to the activity most closely associated with the occupation of the worker provided by the labour hire business. The office staff of labour hire companies, group training companies or group apprenticeship schemes whose role is the placement of workers with host employers is included in Class 786100 Employment Placement Services. However, this Note does not apply to the staff of employers who provide employment placement services to their own business or to a related business and should be classified as per Notes 1-7.

11. Definitions

In this annexure 'Mfg' means 'Manufacturing'.

Manufacturing in this annexure includes the industrial activities of assembly, installation, maintenance and repairing where these activities are not elsewhere classified.

'Dealing' in this annexure refers to contact, interaction and transactions with other people or organisations for business purposes including the activities of commerce, trade, industry, selling and production.

In this annexure 'nec' means 'Not Elsewhere Classified'.

'Predominantly', in relation to services provided by the worker of an employer, refers to the proportion of time that a worker spends in providing services which during the policy period represents or is likely to represent more than any other activities combined of the worker to the total services provided by the worker.

A 'related' business, employer or entity in this annexure has the same meaning as being a related employer for grouping under Division 2B of Part 7 of the Workers Compensation Act 1987.

DIVISION B - MINING

The scope of the Mining Division includes all employers mainly engaged in ‘mining’, in exploration for minerals, and in the provision of a wide variety of services to mining and mineral exploration, as well as mining projects under development. The term ‘mining’ is used in the broad sense to include the extraction of minerals occurring naturally as solids such as coal and ores, liquids such as crude petroleum, or gases such as natural gas. Extraction of minerals is undertaken by such processes as underground or open cut mining, dredging, quarrying, the operation of wells or evaporation pans, or by recovery from ore dumps or tailings, and all supplementary activities aimed at preparing the crude materials for marketing. Activities include milling, dressing and beneficiation of ores, screening, washing and flotation. These activities are generally carried out at or near mine sites as an integral part of mining operations. Natural gas absorption, purifying and similar treatment plants are also included in this Division. The Mining Division excludes employers engaged in refining or smelting of minerals or ores (other than the preliminary smelting of gold), or in the manufacture of such products of mineral origin as coke or cement. Note that all NSW employers whose employees work in or about a coal mine are required by the Coal Industry Act 2001 to obtain workers compensation insurance with Coal Mines Insurance.
